

Four hundred eighty one tickets were collected for the Annual Pig Roast—the most we have ever had.

It was a Great Success!

By Lou Larson⁷

The Fuller Center volunteers for the Annual Pig Roast want to thank each of you who so graciously prepared and delivered a salad or dessert for this event. As you may have heard, the Pig Roast was a great success. We ran out of food just as the crowd dwindled.

Thank you locals and visitors for attending the Pig Roast. The bike trail riders added a lot to our success.

Thanks to everyone for volunteering and contributing in many ways to the Fuller Center for Housing. We netted $1786.87.

[Many of you would recognize Lou's voice if you heard it. She did all the calling asking for donations of salads and desserts.]

He restoreth my soul

Psalm 23:3

To me, this is the feeling when our prayers are answered—such as when so many cooks donate food for the Pig Roast, or the valley churches cooperate to provide meals for our visiting workers, or when we ask for other help from volunteers and businesses, and when we receive an unexpected gift. My energy is renewed.

Thank you, your editor, Judy

Ellie Arguimbau, Dr. Scott Reed, and Joyce & Moe Pellissier make a welcoming group at the ticket stand. Ellie collected the tickets after the Pellissiers sold them. Scott and Sean Curran brought their sons to help as Boy Scouts of Troup #326.

Ellie sits in her recumbent tricycle in the distance behind Joyce & Moe in the ticket booth. When we learned that the tricyclists were coming the weekend of the Pig Roast, then Norm & Mary Lou made sure there was plenty of signing to catch their eye along the bike trail. We hoped to have about 500 diners and ordered food for that many. We did have a great turnout with so many tricyclists joining us. Next year, we plan to keep more informed about them and hope to be ready for an even bigger crowd.

Janie Hendrix had a very popular spot with face painting and child crafts.

Rick Gilbert installed the electrical system for us. Here he hams it up with Lou Larson since he was quite ill with a cold and did not want to get too close. Poor fellow, he left and thought he would be back in time for food, but it was all gone. We will save you a special plate next year, Rick.

Jerry White brings his grandson Eric Hall through the food line at the Pig Roast.

Kathy McPeak checks in Jackie Kanaagard's food donation in at the Pig Roast. We certainly appreciate all the lovely food!

Greater Blessings Scenes

Final reckoning—Duane Little, of the Greater Blessings Committee, witnesses Christina Mace’s signature on her financial statement covering our costs for our help with the Mace home.

Thirty eight Fuller Center Bike Adventures will install siding that Christina & Joshua already purchased on their home on July 30. Verne Blalack is serving as supervisor.

At Grace Holton’s home, Clint Kunze instructs another youth group on how to install siding. First they will install a thin layer of foam insulation to protect her home from freezing pipes.

The youth volunteers put the final siding pieces on the Holton home.

Shoshone Mt. Retreat youth strip the old roofing off Bob Larson’s home. Sadly the freak storm with high winds blew off the tarp that covered the “naked” roof so the house suffered some rain damage.

The Finance Committee met with Jessica & Jason Haynes after the Haynes family was selected as homeowners.

Coming Events

Aug 4-8—Dena Mora
 Aug 12—Board & Committee Meetings, 6:30, Mountain View Congregational Church
 Sept 13—17 Annual Walk-A-Thon

Jim Seaton sorts goods stored in our Osburn shed to outfit one of the concession trailers we use at Dena Mora where we give coffee & cookies to travelers. This is a nice money maker for us as Thrivent for Lutherans provides some matching funds to the donations we receive.

This year our volunteers will be at Dena Mora Rest Stop August 4-8. At the time of this writing, we still needed volunteers to sign up for Thursday, August 7. Please call Ron Boothe 682-3464 to help.

Our July mailing crew were Iver & Lou Larson, Mary Lou Dubiel, April Muhs, R'Gean Lillibridge, Ellie Arguimbau, Marie Carver, and Hermia Crosby. Photos by Judy
