U of I Volunteers

On Saturday, September 26th, 35 to 40 volunteers from the University of Idaho arrived to help with 3 building sites. While Bob Larson supervised some in Kellogg working on the "Little Shop" and Kevin Hutchings supervised others continuing the building of a little storage shed on our lot in the Polaris Addition in Osburn, most worked at the Lake homesite on Sunny Slopes with Jim Taylor of Taylor Made Construction supervising.

They stayed overnight at the Shoshone Base Camp leaving there early to be ready to build at 8 AM and were fed a luscious lunch at St. Alphonsus Church with help from the Catholic Daughters of both St. Rita's and St. Alphonsus Churches. Bob Otto brought his large homemade BBQ to cook the burgers and hotdogs donated by Walmart.

These freshmen and their supervisors were fantastic help. Josh Dean, their coordinator from the ASUI Center for Volunteerism & Social Action sent this message:

"Thank you for the wonderful weekend, everyone had a great time and please pass on our thanks to the people who provided our meal and to all of the construction guys."

But this I say: He who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully. So let each one give as he purposes in his heart, not grudgingly or of necessity; for God loves a cheerful giver. And God is able to make all grace abound toward you, that you, always having all sufficiency in all things, may have an abundance for every good work.

2 Corinthians 9:6-8

Walk

A clear sunny day and 15 energetic walkers. That is all it takes to raise nearly a thousand dollars for the Fuller Center for Housing. Imagine if we had 50 entries. The people that participated each won a prize or two, and boy were the prizes great this year. Everything from $50.00 gift certificates at Building Maintenance to hair cut certificates and chocolate from EJ's in Wallace. Hope to see you all there next year as there is no better feeling than helping our locals help our locals with affordable housing.

Musings from Two Volunteer Coffee and Cookie Dispensers

By Norm Dubiel

Judy Blalack phoned the other day obviously wanting to talk to Mary Lou, who wasn't available, and she proceeded with: "You are going to Dannemora tomorrow" (a prison in NY state) and I said I didn't think so! She said "Oh." I then said I think we will be at the rest stop in Montana on the 29th and she said, "It will be all over by then" – whereupon I used my trump card and stated I would let my social director earn her keep by directing me through this project. Judy then stated, "I want you to write an article (Me? Norm?) about the experience." I thought "Oh Boy! – my Big Chance" and said "sure". She then said, "OK, Bye". That's Judy – a no-nonsense phone talker.

Then started my literary career . . .

The big day came and Mary Lou and I got up at 6am, all primed to be part of the closing volunteer staff of a one-week fund raising project at the rest stop of mile marker # 5, Dena Mora in Montana. Both east and west areas are furnished with small travel trailers made over into "food booths" – one belonging to our group and one borrowed from another group. From these, we dispense hot coffee and tea, cool drinks of lemonade, ice tea, etc, and donated homemade cookies to road-weary travelers. Donations by these folks is optional and most are very generous for the goodies and conversation ensuing.

As luck would have it, we encountered delays enroute (construction) and arrived at 8:08, 8 minutes late. No, the timing police were not there. We promptly negotiated the opening of our site, having done this before, including plugging in the electricity and starting two pots of coffee – one large and one smaller and quicker. As we were getting ready for "customers," a tall gentleman approached our trailer on the door/open side of the trailer and stood quizzically and silently facing me. I, being astute that morning chose to ask, "Can I help you?" He said, "I want a 'koookie.'" I, nonpulsed, looked to ML who came around from the front of the trailer and simply said that we weren't quite ready yet. He said, "OK, I understand" and left.

We managed to do better after that and were able to find change left from the previous day's crew and generated with our own looks and charm over $150. I'm not bragging, but since I'm retired, I don't see that kind of money anymore – although ML is used to it since she handles my retirement check first off.

But, I digress. By and large we found I-90 westbound folks to be pleasant, generous and law abiding folks. (None of them dipped into the cookie fund or complained about anything really.) Generally, they knew about or were part of a Habitat group/build but knew hardly nil about the Silver Valley which we spoke to.

A few vignettes, if you can stand more:

A mother of 2 children, one a toddler, opted for store bought, familiar cookies rather than homemade.

A trucker delivering full beer kegs to a party in Oregon came for coffee but wouldn't reciprocate in kind!

A gent wearing a cap with an Army Air Corp logo prompted me to ask "were you in fixed wing or rotary? He replied, "Neither, my daughter flies 'warrior' combat missions." I donated a coffee for her! He was traveling from Alabama to Ft. Lewis in Washington.

A 50-something gent stopped for refreshments and informed us he was one of a group of bicyclists who pedaled across the US from Anacortes, WA, to Bay Harbor ME. They were on a charity mission and the bikers were all 55 and over. They started out June 7, stayed in Bar Harbor about a week and were now returning by vehicles carrying the bikes.

A full car of family with a totally handicapped child whose father took her out for a chance to be in the sun while two little girls stretched by walking in the park area. A gust of wind blew papers, napkins, and even our donation jar out onto the sidewalk in front of the trailer. This man picked up the donation jar before anything could spill out, others gathered our fallen items. I insisted the girls take some candy sprinkled party cookies and after gathering the family into the car again, this gentleman came back to our booth to donate to us!!!

And so it went all day long. It was a ball for us! Thanks (Silver Valley home builders) for the privilege. If this tweaks your fancy why not volunteer for next year's fund raiser? Just call Norma at 208-786-9903 or Judy at 208-682-3240 or the office at 208-786-6013.

We would like to thank all the workers who spent time serving at this event: Jim & Norma Seaton, Ron & LaDonna Boothe, Moe & Joyce Pellissier, Marilyn White, Kelly Griffin, Mike Humphrey, RoAnn Humphrey, Duane Little, Bob & Pennee Fisher, Wayne & Marcia Henderson, Janice DeVoe, Amethyst Pelham, Nancy Henderson, Marvin & Janet Lake, Haley Gosline, Heather Garitone, Bob & Dana Stovern, Judy Blalack, Becky Stein, Tom & Connie O'Neill, Norm & Mary Lou Dubiel, Ed & Kathy Vang, and Joan Blackburn

We would also like to thank the many folks who donated cookies and other goodies for the travelers. They were greatly appreciated by us and those who enjoyed a break to drink, snack, and visit. And thanks go to The Real Life Ministry, Josie's Full of Beans, and the Holy Trinity Church for accepting cookies for us, to the Shoshone County Sheriff Dept. for allowing us to leave the $ raised until it could be deposited, and North Idaho HfH for the use of their concession trailer. We made $1499.08 and will receive some matching funds from Thrivent.

We thank these businesses for supporting our newsletter.
