The ReUse Store a face lift.

Idaho Servant Adventurers

During their last week in the valley, 2 groups from the Shoshone Mountain Retreat Idaho Servant Adventurers spend time cleaning the peeling paint and prepping the front of the ReUse Store and then applying the original trim colors to brighten the store front. These were the lucky ones as part of the crew were pulling weeds and using a weedeater to clean the area around the store and the nearby lot. The temperature was in the 90s so those who were painting, appreciated the store shade

Our last youth group continues the painting the ReUse Store.

Did not your father eat and drink and do justice and righteousness? Then it was well with him. He judged the cause of the poor and needy; Then it was well.

Jeremiah 22:15-16

July 28th 2017

Dear friends and supporters of the Fuller Center, I was at the Reuse Store on Thurs and Vern was working alone. Several people were in and out in a short period of time. We all needed Vern's attention. He did not skip a beat tending to each one of our "dire needs" when suddenly he was in need of attention. He recovered quickly, stubborn as he is, and back to work serving others. Judy came right away with a smile on her face. We are going to feel a great sense of regret and sorrow if we do not step up and help this beautiful man who gives so much. How did our lives become so busy that we cannot volunteer a few hours a week, even a month? Could you stop in once and awhile and ask to lend a hand for an hour? Could you run and pick something up, or make a delivery or even make a single repair for one person that would improve their life? Even doing one thing once in a while really does make a difference.

Respectfully, Paulette Ross

Verne removed a rotten board above a window on the west side of the store only to find moss growing behind it. He will need an impact hammer to install the replacement board into the concrete blocks above the window.

Rick Gilbert teaches Hudson Bartlett how to install wall board around the kitchen windows at the Osburn house. He stressed the need not to pound too hard but to make the nails flush and smooth with the wall.

Jim Taylor of Taylor made Construction stops by to tell Krista how to install the plumbing herself. We appreciate the help and advice given at Building Maintenance in determining what fittings Krista needed.

Another day, Rick teaches John "Boy" how to do the mudding before taping. John "Boy" spent that night filling in all the nail holes and seams throughout the house to be ready for taping the next day.

Electrician, Josh Haralson for Amp Electronics, tells Krista that the power pole will have to be replaced and set on the other side of the trailer since the snow roof will be 6 feet higher.

John "boy" and Verne remove one of the axles from under the trailer so Krista could get to the piping above the axle. They were both very dirty and tired that night. Ron Ireland removed the other two.

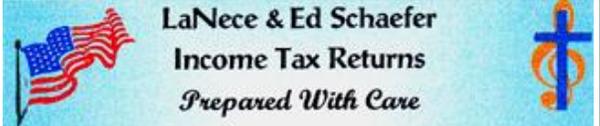

Joe Close from the South Fork Sewer District used a map and grid to locate the cleanout lid for the septic tank near the road. The Sewer District sends a truck every three months to pump out the holding tank since there is no adequate room for a drain field. It was important to locate the tank before heavy equipment moves in to set the new power-pole.

The Fuller Center for Housing is setting up a relief fund for the Huston, TX, flood area. After the emergency agencies leave, The Fuller Center will begin working toward permanent housing. You can make contributions through us—we will send it on.

Verna and Wally Baker have been dear friends since they arrived with the Care-A-Vanners (Gypsies) in the 1990s. They returned many times to help with our housing projects. This time Verne put them to work at the ReUse Store. Wally helped move inside this very heavy table that an anonymous donor left by the side door. It has now become our $1 table where Verna sorted donations.

Here Wally helps disassemble one of the many basins to salvage the hardware before recycling.

Verne and I were delighted that they came to share Wally's 85th birthday with us. ☺

Servant Adventurers and their leader help with the mailing workshop for August newsletters. They appreciated the ice cream treat given by Father Jerome Montez.

Dave Rust, Duane Little, Krista Kirby and Chris Rust discuss the snow protection roof that Dave will install over Krista's trailer. We certainly appreciate the Rust's contribution to our housing project with Krista. No bear will be able to sit on the roof damaging the replacement trailer when this roof is finished.

John "Boy" Delaney installs insulation behind the pipes of the inline water heater in the Osburn house. Sheetrocking behind it was tricky.
